GENERAL OPERATIONS

RECEIVING

- We handle over 1,000 animals a year.
- We house mostly dogs and cats, but we also receive "pocket pets", birds, wildlife, and some farm animals.
- Anyone turning in an animal signs over custody of the animal to the shelter. The surrender form states that we do not guarantee any animal a new home.
- Animals that go up for adoption are given a distemper vaccine, and, if over 3 months in age, a rabies shot is given by a veterinarian.

ABOUT THE STRAYS

- Stray animals are held 7 days for their owners to reclaim them.
- An RTO (Return To Owner) must identify his pet and pay appropriate fees prior to receiving his pet back.
- Most stray animals are housed in the stray kennels.
- After the 7-day holding period is up, animals are screened for adoption (health, temperament, space, etc.). If the animal is deemed adoptable it is moved into the adoptable room. An animal can remain there as long as it is healthy, has a good temperament, and space allows, or it is adopted.

ABOUT OWNED ANIMALS

- They do not wait 7 days.
- Animals are screened for adoption (health, temperament, space, etc.). If the animal is deemed adoptable it is moved into the adoptable room. An animal can remain there as long as it is healthy, has a good temperament, and space allows, or it is adopted.

- They can stay up for adoption as long as their health and temperament remain good and there is adequate space.
- Owners may request euthanasia due to age, health, or temperament.
- Animals just arriving at the shelter may be overly stressed, scared, or aggressive, so use caution with them.
- All of the animals placed into adoption have been observed, seen by a veterinarian, and have been found adoptable.

ABOUT ADOPTIONS

SRAS Adoption Philosophy:

Our aim is to place pets in permanent, responsible homes where they will be treated as a member of the family.

- Homes where the pet will be properly trained so that it is a pleasure to be around and will be welcome wherever pets are allowed.
- Homes where the pet receives routine, preventative veterinary care on a regular basis, and where emergency injuries and illnesses are promptly attended to.
- Homes where the pet is kept clean, warm, well fed, properly identified and restrained so that it may cause no harm to itself or others.
- And perhaps most important of all, homes where the pet will receive the loving attention and companionship which is vital to their emotional health and well being.

SRAS Adoption Procedures:

- Open visitation takes place at the Animal Shelter seven days a week. The public is welcome to visit pets available for adoption daily from 12 pm until 4 pm, we also stay open late on Wednesday evening until 7 pm for guest's convenience.
- We do require interested parties to complete a written application for adoption. This user-friendly form requests basic personal information, such as name, address, phone number and employer. It also requests information regarding other members of the household; a brief description of the applicant's pet history, and some indication of how the applicant intends to care for the pet they are applying for.
- We realize that having a pet is a lifetime commitment, it is often our responsibility to educate prospective adopters so that they may understand and accept this fact. A successful adoption is guided by more consideration, insight and common sense than a written application alone can provide. The interview between the applicant and the adoption counselor is designed to improve the chances for a successful adoption with an open exchange of information on the responsibilities involved and the needs of the animal under consideration. Prior to this meeting our staff will review the application and verify any necessary information.

- Approved applicants will be asked to sign a legally-binding contract of adoption and to pay an adoption fee. Not every applicant will be approved as some of our policies are quite strict for the sake and safety of the animals. We do reserve the right to refuse any adoption if we determine such action to be in the best interest of the animal.
